DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Invention I, claims 1-20, in Paper No. 4 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that all the embodiments are drawn to class 704 and to only three subclasses in class 704. This is not found persuasive because the six inventions are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because claim 48 is an evidence claim that the combination does not require the particulars of the subcombinations. Additionally, invention II has separate utility such as signal enhancement in various audio environments not requiring visual inputs. Invention III has separate utility such as signal enhancement in a speech recognition system or environment. Invention IV has separate utility such as signal enhancement in an audiovisual environment. Invention V has separate utility such as noise suppression.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Graupe et al (US Patent No. 4,025,721).

3. Regarding claims 1 and 11, Graupe discloses audio signal processing for enhancing speech signal intelligibility for the hearing impaired in the presence of system noise, ambient noise, program background noise, and particular hearing impairments at col. 3, line 48 continuing to col. 5, line 52.

Additionally, Graupe discloses a source of audio signals at col. 3, line 54;

A speech enhancement system comprising a speech processing unit and a speech signal bypass circuit at col. 4, lines 61-66 and col. 5, lines 29-42;

An output signal amplifier at col. 3, lines 56-58;

And at least one output speaker at col. 3, lines 56-58;

Wherein the source of audio signals is connected to the speech enhancement system which either processes the speech signal in the speech processing unit to enhance the intelligibility of the speech signals for the hearing impaired before connection to the output signal amplifier and one or more speakers, or bypass the audio signals directly to the output signal amplifier and one or more speakers, the bypass option and speech enhancement processing operations being under user control, at col. 3, line 48 continuing to col. 4, line 66.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 2-10 and 12-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Becker et al (US Patent No. 6,192,341) discloses a data processing system and method for customizing data processing system output for sense-impaired users.

Kanevsky et al (US Patent No. 6,618,704) discloses a system and method of teleconferencing with the deaf or hearing-impaired.

Stork et al (US Patent No. 5,77,306) discloses a method and apparatus for extracting speech related facial features for use in speech recognition systems.

Quagliaro et al (US Patent No. 6,408,273) discloses a method and device for the processing of the sounds for auditory correction for hearing impaired individuals.
